

“World Customs Day” celebrations are as important as “customs” which is an essential part of international trade which shortens the distances in today’s World where we feel less day by day and makes all kinds of products accessible everywhere and so fast.

The aim of World Customs Day is to raise awareness about the functioning of customs, to improve international trade, to facilitate and to establish cooperation between countries, to contribute to the economy and security of countries by ensuring healthy communication/relation.

I would like to thank you for contribution to the effective realization of our customs activities on the basis of our commercial relations, between Turkey and your country with the theme of continuous trade and to congratulate you with my best wishes on your “World Customs Day.”
